Questions 22~25

There is good news for people who hate passwords. Google has added a different way to log in to its services. This new feature (22) employs the use of “passkeys.” Passkeys represent a safer (23) alternative to passwords and texted confirmation codes. All a person has to do is (24) confirm their identity on the device. This confirmation, also known as verification, can take several forms, including a PIN unlock code, a fingerprint or face (25) scan, or a physical security dongle on different devices like iPhones, Mac and Windows computers or Android phones.
