People make judgments about the world and rely on their internal perspectives to determine right from wrong. When asked if two and two equal four, those with an understanding of 41 will most likely agree that the answer is four. However, when placed in a group, people tend to act 42 from what they do as individuals and often feel pressured to conform despite what they know to be true. For instance, if everyone suddenly began saying that two and two equal five, those who know better might feel pressured to 43 the truth they know.

The result from a famous experiment conducted by social psychologist Solomon Asch revealed much about how people behave when 44 by a group. In the experiment, groups of students were invited to participate in a "vision test." However, what was being tested was not vision but 45 the way individuals responded to social pressures. The test placed one unsuspecting student in a room full of others who agreed to lie about what they saw on an eye chart. When asked to choose between what they truly saw and what the group saw, 32% of the participants conformed to the opinion of the group.

四、閱讀測驗

Millions of people, both male and female, undergo cosmetic surgery every year. Modern plastic surgeons can alter almost any aspect of physical appearance, from facial features to body shape. While some cosmetic surgery is done for medical reasons, many other procedures are voluntary. Weighting the pros and cons before having cosmetic surgery can help people make a right decision.

For some, having cosmetic surgery can be vital to confidence levels and self-image. If you have a physical feature that you've spent years wishing were different or that has a recognizable impact on your daily life or health, this is usually an indication that it is something you truly desire to change. However, obsession over a specific facial or body feature can indicate mental health issues, and therapy might be a better option than surgery.

Another big benefit comes to those who have health issues related to their appearances that bother them. Some women with very large breasts experience excruciating back pain that a breast reduction can reduce significantly. A nose job can potentially reduce sinus infections, and the removal of breast tissue in men can lower the risk of cancer in that tissue. These are just a few of the health problems that can be alleviated through cosmetic surgery.

Cosmetic surgery is still surgery and shouldn't be taken lightly. The potential for complications exists, just as for any other operation. Pain is a significant drawback to plastic surgery, and recovery times can be as long as six months in some cases. Some patients may be at risk for severe reactions to anesthesia or may develop health problems such as hemorrhaging as a result of their surgery.

Sometimes the surgery doesn't produce the results the patient desires. This is often a problem with expectations, not with the skill of the surgeon. Expecting unrealistic results, such as that surgery will make you look like a movie star or automatically solve all of your dating problems, can be a significant drawback to having cosmetic procedures. Besides, cosmetic surgery can be expensive and is usually not covered by medical insurance. There may also be a financial loss due to time taken off work for recovery.

- 【2】 46. According to the passage, what can be inferred about cosmetic surgery?
① Much more women than men would like to try it.
② Many people take it out of their own accord instead of being forced to.
③ It has been able to change any aspect of one's appearances since it was invented.
④ Obsession with a certain body feature adequately explains why people take cosmetic surgery.

- 【4】 47. What is mentioned in the passage as a reason for cosmetic surgery?
① To be discovered by a talent scout.
② To win a beauty contest.
③ To find a better job.
④ To improve one's ego.

- 【1】 48. Which of the following best summarizes the third paragraph?
① Cosmetic surgery can help relieve one's health problems.
② Women with large breasts had better take a breast reduction procedure.
③ Those who suffer from sinus infections should have a nose surgery.
④ Cosmetic surgery helps to lower the risk of breast cancer.

- 【3】 49. Which of the following problems of cosmetic surgery is NOT mentioned in the passage?
① Patients might develop allergies because of anesthesia.
② Patients might get very disappointed due to their unrealistic expectations.
③ Patients might get infected due to poor medical equipment.
④ Patients might suffer from pain and spend a long time healing the wound.

- 【4】 50. Which of the following best describes the author's attitude towards cosmetic surgery?
① It's risky, so don't take it.
② It really enhances one's appearances, so it is worthwhile after all.
③ It merely satisfies one's vanity and doesn't help much in one's life.
④ It has both benefits and drawbacks, so people must make their own decisions.
