(四)閱讀測驗

Many economists warned that the U.S. economy is taking one of its cyclical snoozes. However, the predictions of a deep downturn are highly exaggerated, in part because Washington is rushing to revive the declining economy. GDP increased 0.6% in the fourth quarter of 2007, after a powerful 4.9% surge in the third quarter. Exports are booming, growing at an annual rate of 13%, thanks to the weak dollar. The employment picture is surprisingly resilient. Jobless claims, a reliable indicator of recession, have averaged about 325,000 for the past four weeks, far below the danger point. "We haven't seen the 25% increase in jobless claims we had before the last two recessions," says Michael Darda, chief economist with MKM Partners, an equity trading and research firm. "We're not getting a recession signal."

The forces weighing down the economy are soft consumer spending and plunging housing prices, along with far more expensive credit that's slowing everything from auto purchases to the creation of new businesses. Those factors are a serious drag on demand. But they pose their gravest threat in the first two quarters of 2008. In other words, if we're going to get a recession, it will most likely happen amid this turmoil, in the first half of this year.

46. According to the passage, which of the following is true about the U.S. job market?
① There has been a 25% increase in jobless claims last year.
② The unemployment rate is now higher than the danger point.
③ In the fourth quarter of 2007 the unemployment rate has increased about 13%.
④ In the past four weeks the average of the jobless claims was about 325,000.
47. According to the passage, which of the following is NOT a reason that may lead to a recession for the U.S. economy?
① Low GDP. ② Falling housing prices.
③ Weak consumer demand. ④ Expensive credit.
48. The word "resilient" is closest in meaning to _____.
① high ② weak ③ durable ④ changeable
49. What may be inferred about the author's attitude about the U.S. economy?
① Pessimistic. ② Optimistic. ③ Neutral. ④ Indifferent.
50. When was this passage was most likely written?
① September 2007. ② December 2007. ③ January 2008. ④ June 2008.
